The Remonetization of Silver.

The stock argument against the proposition to remonetize silver is that if the measure passes the house the democrats will be unable to carry New York next fall, and will lose in other states.

This argument, like every other argument advanced in behalf of the gold-owners and money sharks, disappears in the air the moment it is put to the test.

In 1890, the democrats in the senate made a party measure of the bill for the remonetization of silver and voted for it solidly. The democrats in the house would have voted for it with the same unanimity if Reed had not suppressed the bill in committee.

What was the result? In the fall elections of that year the democrats won the greatest victory the party has ever known. The republicans in the house who aided Reed in suppressing the remonetization measure were whirled out of office, and an overwhelming majority of democrats put in their places.

Here was a test of the matter, and the result ought to satisfy even the weak-kneed democrats.

Larry Godkin's Virtuous Wrath.

Larry Godkin, of The New York Evening Post, proposes to take a hand in the discussion provoked by Jay Gould's gift of $10,000 to Dr. Paxton's church.

It seems that the Rev. Dr. Paxton criticized the gift and its acceptance in very severe terms, and asked where Gould got his money. This irritated the Rev. Dr. Paxton, who replied:

I know that Mr. Gould is one of the best men in the world in his home life. Of his career in Wall street I know nothing. Being a clergyman, I would not know. But I know of the business of Wall street, from the biggest house of all down to the smallest man who wades the standard. I know it is one man, will rush for wealth—money—money. If God Almighty weighed in the scales of eternal justice with Mr. Gould these other wealthy men and the carpers who now attack Mr. Gould, I would like to know who would make the better showing.

When Larry Godkin read this his indignation found vent in a terrible outburst. The angry editor scored the preacher for ignoring Gould's business career, which he proceeded to condense in the following salty paragraph:

He appeared on the scene in 1870 as the very embodiment of bold knavery and fraud on such a scale that the exposure and punishment of it nearly broke down our legislative and judicial system. He stole a whole railroad, to begin with, and lived with his confederate in barterous luxury on its revenues for some time, and corrupted the courts and legislatures in his efforts to defy justice. When driven to lay and forced to disgorge, he made the standard of "restoration" of $500,000, which was really only a small portion of his plunder! His own account of his methods, before a legislative committee, in carrying out his schemes was one of the most cynical declarations of contempt for political and social morality probably ever made in public. These methods have been made the subject of a book which is one of the best known in the political and financial literature of the day. His career since he finally escaped from the clutches of penal justice has been largely that of a "wrecker" of railroads, and he has carried out his career with energy and success that we believe we speak within the mark when we say that the mere fact that Jay Gould has come into contact with a corporation of men, and that the great markets of the world are a signal for widows and orphans and prudent people to sell their securities and get out of it. That such a career should last for a quarter of a century without serious break or impediment, and should leave its hero rich and honored in his old age by professional moralists, is surely the most shocking example ever set to the young men of the nation. And yet his pastor knows nothing of it, and will not know, and begs money of him for "church extension."

Perhaps this chapter of alleged history requires no comment, but it will have very little weight with many, simply because it is used to point the virtuous wrath of Larry Godkin. The editor of The Evening Post is noted for his biographical attacks upon prominent men, but as his victims continue to do business at the same old stand, with no loss of appetite, and no apparent depression of spirits, people have long since come to the conclusion that something is the matter with Godkin. It will be recollected that Colonel John A. Cockerill once characterized him as an all-round liar and scoundrel. Possibly this little pastoral in prose has stamped itself upon the public mind. Be this as it may, there is no demand for Larry as a moral lecturer, and nobody cares a nickel about his opinion. If he is wise he will bottle his morality for home consumption. Its brand kills it with the general public.

A Distinguished Traveler.

The visit of Mr. George Kennan, the famous traveler, writer and lecturer, to Atlanta next week will be regarded as a notable event by our readers who are somewhat familiar with the story of his life.

Mr. Kennan is chiefly distinguished for his pluck and endurance, exhibited in his difficult Russian and Siberian journeys, and the graphic fashion in which he has given the results of his observations to the world. But he has traveled in many other lands of mystery and romance, and the narrative of his adventures is equally thrilling, whether it flows from his pen or lips.

He is very different from Henry M.

Stanley in many respects, but he deserves to rank with him for courage, energy and alert observation. He has managed in the face of a thousand obstacles to see with his own eyes the workings of the Siberian exile system, and the flood of light which he has thrown upon that almost unknown country has been gratefully acknowledged by mankind.

Our people are anxious to see this heroic traveler, whose experiences in strange lands, and under strange stars, have stirred their blood as they followed his pen through the pages of The Century magazine. When he comes among us next week there will be even more eagerness to see and hear him than was manifested when Stanley lectured here.

Commissioner Clements.

The appointment of Hon. Judson C. Clements to fill the vacancy in the interstate commerce commission, caused by the death of Hon. W. L. Bragg, will give general satisfaction.

Mr. Clements is one of the brainiest and most popular men in Georgia. His public services have demonstrated the high order of his abilities, and shown him to be a man of affairs, as well as a statesman.

In his new field of work Mr. Clements will deal with familiar subjects. His equipment peculiarly fits him for the duties of his position, and his sterling integrity and keen insight, combined with his other qualifications, will in a short time make him perhaps the most valuable member of the commission. His many friends in Georgia congratulate him upon an honor worthily won and sure to be worthily worn.

A Neglected Art.

An esteemed subscriber writes to The Constitution as follows:
I have a son, fairly educated and of average intellect, who has reached the age of manhood without developing either the capacity or desire for engaging in any useful occupation. He is good-looking and makes friends, but I am afraid that he will never exert himself. Is there any way of dealing with such a case?

Our correspondent takes the matter altogether too seriously. He is probably an energetic man himself, and he naturally falls into the common error of supposing that energy and application are factors of success. This is only partially true. If the young man referred to answers the description given in the letter—that is, if he is good-looking, makes friends, and is fairly educated, with average mental powers—he has the best sort of capacity for his start in life. All that he has to do is to take up the much neglected art of standing around, and his fortune will be made.

It is very difficult to define this art, but it is one of infinite possibilities, and every reader will be able to name men of his acquaintance who have practiced it with great success. The pleasant fellow who persistently stands around in the right places, and in the right company never fails to get the softest jobs, the easiest snags and the most profitable pickups. Capitalists and men of business who pretend to despise the standing-around habit are all the time pushing its experts into good places.

The fact is, it requires a high order of ability to stand around without slipping up or retrograding socially. The man who is able to do it, and make himself pleasant, is bound to reap the rewards of his Delauneyan posing. Men will leave their business and make a sacrifice to get him into a genteel, profitable position, where he will have little or nothing to do. Perhaps it will be captiously suggested that men render these services to their standing-around friends in order to see less of them. It is not our business to answer brutal insinuations. If any of our readers ask such questions they must answer for themselves. All that we propose to do is to comfort our correspondent by calling his attention to a great and neglected art which has literally millions in it for the prepossessing young man who will devote himself to it with the generous enthusiasm of youth, and wait patiently for the outcome. There is more in this than will appear to the superficial reader, but the genuine philosopher will recognize the value of the hints given in this brief and fragmentary sketch.

Editor Watterson appears to be playing the part of Brother Fox, when he caught Brother Rabbit by means of the tarbaby. He "lays low and says nothing."

Comets without tails are becoming very frequent of late. The question arises, can a comet be admitted into the highest spheres of society?

The democrats in congress are carrying the two issues of tariff reform and the remonetization of silver side by side, and in this they are carrying out the known wishes of the people who sent them there.

It seems that even in the sweet, sunny south there are featherheads who expected the democrats in congress to ignore the wishes of their constituents on the silver question.

The Charleston News and Courier has again discovered that discord and ruin are to follow the passage of the silver remonetization bill by the democratic house. This gloom grows out of the native and in-born sensitiveness of an able editor who is a prophet on the sea islands and a traitor reformer in other parts of the state.

The Watterson Club, of Louisville, Ky., is inclined to kick because of the Hill boom. Mr. Watterson should tame these fiery young colts.

Secretary Foster's polite allusion to "flannel-mouthed Irishmen" is probably intended to be a high compliment to Irish republicans.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

The recent death of Clarence N. Howell, for many years past a leading editorial writer on The St. Louis Republic, causes that paper to pay him a high tribute, closing as follows: "He identified himself completely with the paper, sank himself in it, and derived from being known except through his always anonymous work. Reserved and modest, few even of those who were constantly associated with him knew the depth of his attachment to the newspaper and his work on it, but it showed in a strikingly characteristic way in his last illness. As he was suffering most intensely with an affection of the throat and chest, it became necessary to perform the operation of tracheotomy to enable him to breathe. As soon as the surgeons had introduced the tube and had secured the insertion in his throat, he dictated this note to an associate on the paper: 'You will find the Food for Mirth and other matter for the Sunday paper in the third drawer on the left hand side of my desk.' This was the man dying as it had been the man living—loving himself in his work. And his work is for him a better legacy than

The Good Times.
Here's another halloo for the good, good times, when the poet won't annoy you with his world, should rhyme;
When the man who wants exchanges will cease to be a bore,
And will only stay a minute and politely shut the door.

It's coming—we can hear it—
That much-needed day;
That world-getting time;
But it's still some miles away!

And here's a loud hoo for the maiden or the woman;
Who wakes the old piano in the city boarding house;
When the time is surely coming—and it will not make us weep—
When they'll cease the midnight drumming and we'll get a year of sleep!

It's coming—we can hear it—
That much-needed night;
That world-getting time;

There has been a steady and very noticeable improvement in The Brunswick Daily Times during the past three months. This improvement is every department of the paper, and extends also to The Weekly Times, which recently saw the light, and is making great headway.

LET CLEVELAND SPEAK.

Democratic Demand That the Ex-President Prove His Loyalty to the Party.

It is the duty of Mr. Cleveland to speak out, and to point out that, however necessary it is upon occasion to rebuke the machine, it is better not to arraign the party managers for mistakes than to give aid and comfort to the republican party. Mr. Warner, one of the ablest men in congress from New York, thinks that Mr. Cleveland by speaking would only get himself in hot water. But it is better to be in hot water than to be in a cold-water tub, without protest, a boiling convention, held by his friends, that will injure democratic prospects.

A Repentant Sinner.

From The Boston Herald.
The admission into Plymouth church of the young man, whose trial and acquittal on the charge of murder created such a sensation some time ago, indicates that the members of this congregation are satisfied with the conduct of their representative. They forgive and forget his misdeed in view of his evident purpose to atone for the past. This action of the church is rather more easily explained than is the reported declaration of Father Abbott, who is quoted as having stated to his congregation, in emphatic language, that the killing of McCreole's victim was not only excusable, but was demanded by every consideration of state and society. The evidence at the trial went, even allowing that a cold-blooded murder was justifiable under any circumstances.

"Hill Is the Man."
From The Brunswick Daily Times.
The Times has no reason to doubt that Mr. Cleveland was opposed to the infamous force bill, but if he ever contributed to its defeat it is a profound secret. His newspaper was a great barrier between him and any other named and courageous utterances in opposition to it. Hill was pronounced. The time has come when the great democratic party must put an all-out effort to elect Hill to the senate.

One Hundred Dollars for a Husband.
From The New Orleans Picayune.
A curious marriage took place in Jackson, Mich., a few days ago. A young laborer heard that a few days ago a young woman was at a hotel in the city, would give any man $100 to marry her and not expect him to live with her. He applied for the job, was duly married, took his $100 and went about his business. Mrs. Bentley appeared in the afternoon, and her husband's will, his property, in case of her marrying again, reverted to her son; otherwise it would be divided at her death among a great many heirs, and that the marriage was simply to secure it for her son.

Will Get There.
The New York Tribune contributes the following to the educational literature of the campaign: "A southern politician who called on Hill at the Hotel Normandie on Sunday made an observation in the Hoffman house cafe last evening which created much merriment. 'Well,' he said, 'I called on Mr. Hill yesterday, and I have concluded to favor him, because I think if he secures the nomination he will get into the white house some way, whether he is elected or not.'"

Voices from Virginia.
From The Washington Post.
C. G. Holland, of Danville, Va., said at the Metropolitan Hotel: "Governor Hill has many friends in Virginia, and is growing daily in popularity. I believe he will get the vote of the state in the convention." General L. L. Lomax, of Fauquier county, echoed Mr. Holland's sentiments, and said: "Mr. Cleveland is losing ground every day to Hill."

Morrison on Hill.
Hon. William R. Morrison said to a reporter in Chicago: "Hill is gaining strength, and I am quite sure Cleveland and his friends will support him if nominated. Hill is a strong organizer and is a fighter. He is also a good traitor reformer now, and I would advise a brilliant campaign."

A Parallel Case.
From The Kansas City Times.
Senator Hill's home town reversed its democratic policy Tuesday. Now listen to the republican warpage, though they should remember that Mr. Harrison's city did the same thing only a short time ago.

WITH GREAT ECLAT.

Will Atlanta's Jolly Irishmen Celebrate St. Patrick's Day.

THE PROGRAMME AS IT WILL BE GIVEN

On the Day Which the Sons of Ireland Celebrate—They Will Gather Round the Festive Board.

Atlanta's Irish citizens are going to celebrate St. Patrick's day as all true and loyal sons of the "ould country" should do.

It will be the highest celebration of St. Patrick's day ever held in the south, a roving and enthusiastic outpouring of Irishmen such as was never seen in Atlanta before.

A public parade through the street, celebration of mass at the Church of the Immaculate Conception, public speaking and a magnificent banquet covers the main features of the programme for the day.

The speaking will be of the eloquent, patriotic kind that stirs up enthusiasm, and no breast is quicker stirred by patriotic sentiment than the Irishman's.

Hon. James F. O'Neill, the eloquent young Athenian, will be the special orator of the day, and there will be other speakers, probably among them the eloquent Tom Grady, of New York, who has accepted the earnest invitation of the Irish societies, and will be an honored guest that day.

The Committee Meet.
There was a meeting of the various committees from the several Irish societies of the city last night.

The committees came together in the meeting room under the Church of the Immaculate Conception for the purpose of making the final preparation for the grand celebration, and adding the finishing touches to the programme for the day. The meeting was the largest yet held, about three hundred people being present.

Mr. John L. Gathin, of the committee on invitations, reported that Mr. James F. O'Neill had been selected as orator of the day and had accepted.

If Mr. Grady reaches the city he will doubtless respond to the request of the committee on speakers, reported that Mr. James F. O'Neill had been selected as orator of the day and had accepted.

The report from the committee on invitations was made by Mr. J. L. Gathin. He said that a magnificent banquet would be given on the night of the 17th at Concord hall. Mr. Mike N. Blount had been chosen as toastmaster.

Mr. Arthur B. Connolly, marshal of the day, made a report giving the time of march. Marshal Connolly's aides will be Mr. J. P. Dow and Mr. P. J. Kenney.

The Irish societies will form in front of Concord hall at 8 o'clock, on the morning of St. Patrick's day. The Fourth Auditorial hall will be the headquarters of the procession, and the Irish societies will come in the following order: The Ancient Order of Hibernians, the Liberatorian Society, and the Emerald Chain.

For days tomorrow: $1,075,362.62

Notes.—The advance in Tennessee Coal today was caused primarily by the proposed amalgamation with the Sloss Company, but Tennessee Coal and Iron is worth the money and more on its own merits.

These enterprises are the avenues through which southern investors should make money and not leave them to be developed by foreign capital.

Our own people have been wary of industrial undertakings, preferring investments in railroads in the main, but the status of the latter, with the certainty that unfavorable action will be taken by the legislature before the year is out, makes many holders wish their capital was otherwise employed.

Iron, coal, marble, talc and other minerals are found in abundance in our hills and mountains, and pay large prices to those who prosecute with skill, energy and capital their preparation for practical use.

Outside capital is desired in these enterprises of course, but local money should manifest more faith in them than heretofore. If it had been done, and many dollars now locked up in railroad securities, which cannot be marketed at anywhere near cost and are of doubtful value, would be earning and paying for returns to their owners.

Local Bond and Stock Quotations.—New York exchange buying at par, selling at 1/1600 p. m. premium.

NEW YORK, March 10.—In the stock market the most pronounced movement of the day was the advance in Evansville and Peoria Hauls, which rose from 10 1/2 to 12 1/2, on very limited business, while Tennessee Coal was one of the leading active changes, rising from 47 to 50. Other changes were on a smaller scale, but the strength in New England, Reading, and Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh stocks was very marked in the early dealings, disappearing with their activity before noon. In the afternoon there were several marked movements besides those mentioned, Sugar and Louisville, New Albany and Chicago being most prominent in the upward movement, however, extended to the rest of the list, and a general upward movement of small fractions occurred. The advance, however, was of little moment, and the market closed quiet and firm, generally only slight gains over last night's prices. Sales, listed stocks, 128,000 shares; unlisted, 100,000 shares.

Exchange quiet and steady at 4 1/2 to 5 1/2, commercial bills 4 1/2 to 4 3/4.

Money easy at 1 1/2 to 1 3/4, clearing offered at 2.

Sub-treasury balances, $10,014,000; currency, $10,141,000.

Governments full but steady, at 117.

State bonds dull and listless.

A CITIZENS' MEETING.

One Will Be Held for the World's Fair Display.

ATLANTA AWAKENING TO THIS WORK.

Several Leading Citizens Give a Cool Hundred Each—The School Children Shut Out by a Strange Law.

There will be a great citizens' meeting in Atlanta within the next ten days.

It will be called under the auspices of the Fulton county board of world's fair commissioners, which Colonel A. J. West is chairman.

It will be the first shot fired by the commissioners for raising money to carry a Georgia exhibit to Chicago, and if signs count for anything it will be a cross, raising big money in every sense of the word.

It has not yet been decided by the board for Fulton as to what date is most feasible for this meeting, but it seems to be pretty generally the sense of the commissioners that the meeting should be held within the next ten days, and this most probable will be none.

The interest in the movement to secure a fund sufficient to have a display at Chicago from the Empire State of the South commensurate with the significance of her wonderful resources, is increasing every day all over Georgia, and Fulton will be backed up most heartily wherever she does in the movement.

A number of prominent citizens of Atlanta have signified their purpose to be present at the citizens' mass meeting to be held in the near future, and say when they come they will open their pocket books and give money as liberally as their means will allow to further the interests of the great undertaking.

$5,000 To Be Raised Here.

It will be remembered that when the state commissioners adopted the plan of voluntary contributions to raise the $100,000 necessary a basis of 10 cents per capita was adopted throughout the entire state.

Accordingly Fulton county is expected to pay in voluntary contributions about eight thousand dollars.

The purpose of the Fulton county board in calling the mass meeting is to get the collection of this money fairly under way.

Every citizen of Atlanta and Fulton county will be cordially invited to attend this meeting, the object of which will be given by Chairman West in advance.

Subscription List Handed Out.

Colonel West has given out subscription lists to many enthusiastic workers for the world's fair in Atlanta and Fulton county, and at the next meeting of the county board a full report will be made of the amounts collected.

We, the undersigned, agree to pay the sum set opposite our names as a subscription to the amount assessed the county of Fulton for the purpose of exhibiting the resources and progress of the state at the Chicago Columbian exhibition in the city of Chicago in 1893.

Already such men as ex-Governor Bullock and Hon. Albert Cox and others have said they will give $100 each to the fund, and the work is being pushed forward most vigorously and most satisfactorily.

Here's a Strange Law.

The world's fair commissioners for Fulton will not have the aid of the school children in Atlanta as the other county commissioners in Georgia will have.

It will be remembered that one of Governor Northing's systems of collection, as already outlined, is to have the school children all over the state contribute nickels and dimes.

They can't do it in Fulton.

There is a law adopted years ago forbidding any subscription for any purpose whatever to be taken at the schools among the pupils of this county.

The authorities have been interviewed about the matter, but they say the law will stand, and no money at all can be raised by the school children for the part Fulton is expected to pay for a Georgia exhibit at Chicago.

MEN AND AFFAIRS.

What Some Well-Known People Are Doing

General Phil Cook has found on the early records of the secretary of state's office something that will interest the Scotch-Irish people who are to meet here soon.

About a hundred years ago, the legislature of Georgia voted 200,000 acres of land to the people who came to the state from Virginia and North Carolina. These were the Scotch-Irish people, of whose coming and subsequent history Governor Gilmer gave an account in his famous book known as "Gilmer's Georgians." This book has long been out of print, and few copies are in existence. There is one in the state library.

While he was in this antiquarian mood, General Cook found the marks of an ancient subterranean plan upon the records. In 1828 the Central Georgia bank was chartered, and from it grew the loan scheme which planted the land fund. A large amount of money was received from the federal government, and the legislature passed an act authorizing the Central bank, which was the fiscal agent of the state, to lend this money out to the people, in amounts not exceeding $2,500 to one person, and distributed among the counties according to population. General Cook says the scheme went into operation, and the money went out never to return. It was, in brief, very much the experience of Alabama.

The expected resignation of Colonel Emmett Womack has brought several applicants for the position. The friends of O. H. B. Bloodworth, of Forsyth; Mr. Hunt, of Barnesville, and Mr. Turner, of McDonough, are pressing their names on the governor. The people of Forsyth, male and female, seem to have taken up arms for Mr. Bloodworth. Besides the legal and judicial and other recommendations, he has had a remarkable testimonial from the women of Forsyth. They met and passed resolutions on Mr. Bloodworth, and sent them to the governor. Hon. Robert Bernier, who is Mr. Bloodworth's law partner, called on the governor yesterday.

There was a rousing meeting of the Scotch-Irish Society last night. The entertainment committee has ordered 5,000 invitations engraved, and the work is being executed by J. P. Stevens & Bro. Two thousand letters will be sent to the editors of the United States this week. This year's congress will be the largest yet.

Colonel Pike Hill is a rock-ribbed democrat, and don't care a cent for nungumps. He says Hill has knocked out the third party, because the farmers have confidence in him, though they would not support Cleveland. He thinks the prospect for a democratic victory was never brighter.

THEY'RE NOT TO BE SOLD.

The Board of Aldermen Refuses to Sell the City's Lots in Oakland.

No more lots are to be sold in Oakland cemetery.

So the aldermanic board decided yesterday. The board refused to concur in the ordinance allowing the sale. The board decided that it would be injurious to the health of Atlanta to allow the lots to go on the market—that is to allow any more

The ordinance to sell the police headquarters was concurred in. It is to be sold at public auction, the sale to take place on April 6th. Other ordinances concurred in were, to pave Butler street in front of the Grady hospital; to pave Highland avenue from Boulevard to the city limits; to pave Piedmont avenue from Ponce de Leon avenue to Sixth street. The paving on Highland avenue is not to be done, however, till the Richmond and Danville road builds a bridge at the place where it crosses.

ATLANTA FLOWER SHOW.

The First Exhibition of Bulbs to Be Given on March 30th.

The first exhibition of bulbs under the auspices of the Atlanta Horticultural Society will be in Horticultural hall, the new hall in the Franklin publishing house building on Ivy street, near Edgewood avenue. It will open at 10 o'clock a. m., March 30th, and close at 7 o'clock p. m., April 1st.

Music will be rendered by a band during the exhibition. An admission fee of 10 cents will be charged to defray expenses. Exhibits open to all.

Those wishing to exhibit can enter free of charge by applying in person or by letter to C. A. Dahl & Co., 10 Marietta street, who have the book of entry for exhibitors, and who will furnish premium lists and all information.

Exhibitors from outside the city or those not able to arrange their exhibits for themselves will have their plants properly arranged and cared for if addressed in care of C. A. Dahl & Co.

The premium list is as follows: Class 1—Best 50 hyacinths in pots, $15; second best, $7.50.

CAPITOL NOTES.

Governor Northern left with School Commissioner Bradwell for Crawford county yesterday afternoon, and will address an educational meeting at Knoxville today.

School Commissioner Bradwell says there is a marked improvement in the country schools and he is taking every opportunity to stimulate them. With this view, he has called a meeting of the white and colored teachers of eight counties at Albany on March 25th, during the session of the chautauqua.

Dr. J. L. M. Curry and other distinguished educators will be there. The counties included in the call are Baker, Berrien, Colquitt, Dougherty, Early, Lee, Mitchell and Worth.

The department of agricultural has changed the system of fertilizer inspection somewhat this year, and it is possible to make an accurate comparison with the movement of fertilizers last year, but from the number of tons ordered, it is calculated that about two hundred thousand tons have been sold already this season, and the number by the close of the business will be in the neighborhood of two hundred and fifty thousand tons. This, as against 300,000 tons inspected in Georgia last year, shows a falling off of about 17 per cent.

Mr. Furlow sent out the last tax digest yesterday afternoon, and the tax receivers will soon be abroad in all the counties. The boards of equalization will play an important part in the work this year, and it is expected that their revision may raise the valuation of real and personal property as much as $50,000,000. While they raise the valuation of the doggers, they will sometimes lower that of others, so that lands side by side will pay the same tax.

ONE OF THEM ARRESTED.

A Negro Who Shot a Town Marshal Is in the Station House Lockup.

A little more than a month ago the marshal of Social Circle was shot by two negroes, to whom he tried to arrest. They were tracked to Atlanta and then lost sight of. Since then every effort has been made to find the two men. Yesterday morning Patrolman Sheppard arrested Ed Young, one of the negroes on Decatur street. The authorities at Social Circle were immediately notified.

Severely Injured.

St. Mar's, Ga., March 10.—(Special.)—While Mr. M. Mann was out driving some miles from here, his horse became frightened and ran away, threw Mr. Mann out of the buggy and injured him very badly. He was picked up insensible in the woods. He is improving.

TO WEAK MEN

suffering from the effects of youthful errors, early decay, wasting weakness, lost manhood, etc., I will send a valuable treatise, mailed containing full particulars for home cure, FREE of charge. A splendid medical treatise should be read by every man who is nervous and debilitated. Address, Prof. F. C. FOWLER, Medico-Surgical.

The Secret

Of our lively trade in Hats lies in the merit of the Hats themselves. They have many points that specially commend them to popular favor.

Bear in mind, too, our styles are largely exclusive. You'll find Hats in our store you can't duplicate elsewhere.

A. O. M. GAY & SON,

Fashionable Hatters, (Sole Agents Miller's Hats.) 18 Whitehall Street, mart-dim

We Are Ready

With the handsomest line of Spring and Summer Clothing we have ever shown. All the newest shades and fabrics in Men's and Boys' suits, extra pants, etc. The variety great, the styles correct, the prices right.
